PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear Alumni/ae and Friends:

I am pleased to be writing to you as you receive the College's 2013-2014 President's Report. As you will read, the College had a successful year under the leadership of S. Elizabeth Hill as she completed her tenure as president.

But the real credit for the College's success rests with all of you ... Thank you! Your generosity and abiding support of St. Joseph's College allowed us to provide scholarships, programs and services for thousands of deserving women and men.

And the success of the College should not be measured in buildings and facilities, but in the lives of our students and graduates who have been transformed by their SJC educational experience.

In this report, you will read about the multiple scholarship programs established by many of you and many others like you who care about the College and who live lives of generosity and compassion for the Common Good.

James Wallis, the president and founder of Sojourners, wrote:

"I believe it starts with focusing on the common good — not just in politics, but in all the decisions we make in our personal, family, vocational, financial, communal, and, public lives. That old but always new ethic simply says we must care for more than just ourselves or our own group. We must care for our neighbor as well, and for the health of the life we share with one another. It echoes a very basic tenet of Christianity and other faiths — love your neighbor as yourself — still the most transformational ethic in history."

But you will also read about some of our students whose futures have been changed because of your generous support of our scholarship programs and St. Joseph's College. These scholarships provide resources for academically gifted students, students with limited means and in memory of those who benefitted from the SJC experience in past years.

This fall, my wife and I were honored to establish The Rose and Jack Calareso Community Service Scholarship. Our goal in establishing this scholarship program was to ensure that in addition to students of extraordinary talent or limited means, those who were committed to lives of service to the Common Good also had the opportunity to attend St. Joseph's College.

Service and social responsibility are important core values of SJC. And if we are committed to making an SJC education available to as many students as possible who embrace our values ... who embody our values ... who will carry our values into the world ... then service is as important as every other value.

Martin Luther King, Jr. wrote, "Everybody can be great ... because anybody can serve. You don't have to have a college degree to serve. You don't have to make your subject and verb agree to serve. You only need a heart full of grace. A soul generated by love."

But imagine how much more our students can and will do armed with an SJC degree and the skills and abilities developed through their educational experience. A great college ... transforming students ... who will continue to live great lives of service as well as professional success.

As we begin our 99th year of excellence in the Josephite tradition, our students remain fundamentally the same. They come to us with great potential ... potential that can be fulfilled and realized at this special college ... but with limited means and real challenges to overcome.

Their success at this extraordinary institution is dependent on their hard work, the dedication of our faculty and staff, but also the generosity of our friends and benefactors who financially support programs and scholarships.

Thank you for all you have done for SJC. I hope that you will continue to be generous with your time, talent and treasure so that we can serve the needs of our students for generations to come.

If you have any questions or would like to discuss the College, please feel free to contact me at any time at jcalareso@sjcny.edu or 718.940.5902.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in dark ink, reading "Jack P. Calareso". The signature is fluid and cursive, with the first letters of the first and last names being capitalized and prominent.

SERVICE and ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE: a continuing legacy

The inauguration of Jack P. Calareso, Ph.D., as our seventh president marks a new beginning for St. Joseph's College.

Typically, an inauguration focuses solely on one individual, the new president. Dr. Calareso has decided to take a different approach and turned the focus back on the entire College. He recognizes and appreciates that a successful college is more than the work of one leader. It takes an entire community to change the lives of thousands of students every day, every year, since 1916. This is reason to celebrate the entire St. Joseph's College community.

St. Joseph's is proud of the five core values that define the College: intellectual values, spiritual values, social responsibility, integrity and service. These values form the common language unique to St. Joseph's College. These five core values will come alive through a series of events and projects throughout the 2014-2015 academic year. Each event will celebrate both a value of SJC and the people who live out these values every day.

One of the first major events of the inaugural year of celebration was the College's 32nd annual Scholarship Gala, held at the Crest Hollow Country Club in Woodbury on November 7. Proceeds from the gala are being used to establish The Rose and Jack Calareso Community Service Scholarship, which will be awarded to a current or incoming St. Joseph's College student who has displayed extraordinary commitment to his or her community.

DR. CALARESO

We're honored to have this event focus on this scholarship. It really generates from the life commitment that my wife, Rose, and I have had to serve the world, to be committed and dedicated to the Common Good, to be committed and dedicated to community service.

A term I often use is "redemptive citizenship." We have a responsibility to serve, to help others, to support those who need help. ... We want our students to be successful in whatever field they choose, and so while there are many scholarships that support academic excellence and academic pursuit, there are many scholarships and resources to help students of limited means to attend college. We want to really recognize and celebrate those students — and help them in any way we can — who are committed to a life of service.

"I think this is a special place, with a special educational philosophy that focuses on the life of the heart and the mind that engenders a spirit of service and caring."

JANELLE DELA ROSA '15

If you're spending money to go to college, you should get the full experience, and to focus that on service is brilliant because people who have never done anything like that — any kind of community service before — it really opens their eyes, and it really humbles a person when they're able to do something for somebody else.

DYLAN GAFARIAN '15

Helping someone else is something that really changes you and your perspective, and it changes your output and your outlook on life. ... We are only as good as the work we put in. If we want a better tomorrow for ourselves and our children and for their children's children, we need to put the work in now.

SABRINA GARGANO '15

Being involved with so many different things has changed me, has given me this opportunity to become a leader to realize my true strengths and weaknesses and how to work through them. St. Joseph's has done that for me. This school has made me all that I've become. It has given me so many opportunities and so many different insights on different subjects that have prepared me for my future.

AHKASH PERSAUD '16

You grow as a person, you get this new experience, and it's just a wonderful feeling just to be able to devote your time to helping somebody.

BIANCA COMPAS '16

When you're helping other people, you feel as though you're giving them something, but in the end I feel like they end up giving me something, and I learn from it.

MICHAEL MINER '15

I believe I have made an impact in a small way, but it's those small ways that, when they're in mass amounts, that they actually mean something. From the students that sat at the lunch counter in the '60s — it started with a handful of students, and without that, there would've been no change.

AFROZA SULTANA

Brooklyn Campus • Class of 2016
Somers Fund for ACES Students

Major: Biology

Career goal: Primary care physician

Born in Bangladesh, Afroza's family immigrated to the United States when she was 8 years old. She is the first of her five siblings to attend college, and she also works part time at the Interboro Pediatrics clinic in Brooklyn, where she provides support for the staff and translates for Bengali patients.

Afroza credits her father for being a positive influence in her life and inspiring her to pursue a career in medicine. "He has always worked hard to provide things for me and my siblings even when he was sick and he couldn't," she says. "My father dedicated his entire life and sacrificed a lot for us to have better lives than he did. Though it was hard for him due to his sickness, he still did it. This inspires me to become a doctor and help people who are sick. Helping people is something I am passionate about and something my father will be very proud of me for doing."

Without the Somers ACES Scholarship, Afroza would not have been able to move forward with her dream of becoming a doctor.

"Receiving [this] scholarship from St. Joseph's College means a lot to me. It means that someone out there cares that I receive an education, that I am not seen as just a number in the student body but as an individual person."
